It is a fairly safe bet that there is at least one box of baking soda in your home right now. Most people have one tucked in a cabinet or in their pantry even if they only bake a handful of times a year. Other people like to have a box in the pantry and then an open box in the fridge and/or freezer because they know about the odor control features. How sad that something this amazing is so consistently overlooked, misjudged or just forgotten about. How sad that we reach for expensive cleansers filled with chemicals and harmful ingredients or worse, even more expensive “organic” cleansers when that simple yellow box is all that we really need. From greener cleaning to beauty tricks and tips you should be looking at baking soda not as some minor ingredient but a major component of your daily life!
